

Legal Disclaimer

This educational institution, operating under a homeschooling modality, acts as a pedagogical support entity, providing resources, guidance, and academic assistance to families who have chosen home education for their children.

Legal Warning:

The legality of homeschooling may vary depending on the jurisdiction. Therefore, each family is responsible for knowing and complying with the laws in force in their country, province, or state regarding non-school-based education.

Under no circumstances shall this institution be held responsible for any legal, administrative, or judicial consequences arising from the practice of homeschooling, nor for any objections, sanctions, or measures adopted by educational authorities or other state entities.

In the event of receiving notifications, warnings, or sanctions from any educational or governmental authority regarding the chosen educational modality, it is recommended that the family immediately inform this institution and, if possible, consult a lawyer or legal professional specialized in the subject, in order to receive appropriate legal guidance and determine the steps to follow.